

The Utah Citizens' Advisory Commission

A Forum For Community Involvement

The Army's top priorities for the Chemical Stockpile Disposal Project are safely disposing the chemical weapons stored at the Deseret Chemical Depot in Tooele, Utah, and providing meaningful opportunities for the public to be involved in the project. The Army recognizes that public participation in the Chemical Stockpile Disposal Project is critical to its success; there are still many decisions to be made, and many opportunities for the public to influence those decisions.

The Utah Citizens' Advisory Commission provides a vital link between the Tooele community and the Army by providing a forum for exchanging information about chemical weapons disposal. It exists to represent community interests. The Utah Citizens' Advisory Commission meets with a representative of the Secretary of the Army at public meetings to discuss the Chemical Stockpile Disposal Project, its impact on Utah and the Tooele community, and the interests of the public.

Governor Leavitt appointed each Citizens' Advisory Commission member to serve an unlimited term at his discretion. Although the Utah Citizens' Advisory Commission receives limited federal funding from the Department of Defense, it operates independent of Army influence.

The Army invites you to contact the Utah Citizens' Advisory Commission to discuss the Chemical Stockpile Disposal Project and ways to become involved in the decision-making process.
